

UNBEATEN N. C. O. TEAMS CLASH FRIDAY

SHOVEL MAT SHOW DRAWS GOOD CROWD; GARDNER IS WINNER

Wolfe Falls Before Slam Holds of N. Y. Grappler; Kruskamp Victor.

BY KARL R. McELROY
WRESTLING today was occupying its place in the firmament of Marion sports after the opening hoop boom and deep session at the Steam Shovel gym in which "Pinky" Gardner demonstrated his superiority over Frankie Wolfe. It was a great crowd which witnessed an unusually great group of matches. Even the preliminaries were highly entertaining and kept the fans in a constant uproar.

From the outcome of the main go, it is our guess that Joe Banacki will be fighting Gardner in the near future for the light heavyweight crown of the middle west. And, venturing another guess, the Chicago cowboy will have more than a little trouble in keeping the belt.

Of course, it may have been that Frankie Wolfe was bothered by his corns last night. Then, on the other hand it was the general impression given the crowd that Gardner seemed to be bothering him even more.

Pinky Takes First
Gardner won the first and third falls to defeat the wild man from Australia. The first came in 15½ minutes after a series of body slams and the third followed an airplane swing and a slam. Gardner made an error in attempting to finish the match early in the second fall. Wolfe got an opening and pinned the New Yorker in 14 minutes with an arm scissor.

Gardner worked so smoothly that he made clean wrestling exciting to watch. And when it became necessary to rough it up a bit, he was there to supply any amount needed. He made Wolfe look like a backwoodsman.

"Hardy" Kruskamp, the big Ohio State football halfback, won the semi-final with his flying tackle. And what flying tackles they were. It took just three of the into finish Frank Higgins, the Nashville, Tenn., mountain, in 10 minutes.

Higgins Plenty Strong
Higgins, weighing 208 pounds and a little over five feet tall, is one of the freaks of the sport. His greatest asset in his strength and he caused Kruskamp plenty of trouble. The 100-pound griddle was tossed around like a bag of sugar.

Kruskamp waited for his opening and when it came it was just one, two, three and out for Mr. Higgins. Kruskamp, by the way, is matched with "Pinky" Gardner in Columbus this week.

Sergeant Bull Smith apparently made his big mistake when he was quite young. He should have joined a circus rather than the wrestling game. Not that he can't wrestle, but circus followers usually are more appreciative of his style of showmanship. He wrestled Hugh Bell, the Delaware farmer, in the second preliminary and lost in 24 minutes from a headlock.

The first preliminary proved quite interesting for a bout of its class with Bill Miller of Washington, C. H. going 20 minutes to draw with Joe Snyder of Columbus.

Earl Roach handled the matches.

HARDING CAGERS TO MEET BUCYRUS FIVE

Cellar Post Again Beckons as Presidents Tackle Redmen; Tygers Play Shelby.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

THE best opportunity in several weeks to better their way into the win column of the North Central Ohio league basketball race will be presented. Harding High school's basketball team will meet the Presidents journey to Bucyrus to do battle with the Redmen of the latter town. To date neither team has shown very much good basketball although it must be admitted that the two Bucyrus teams have looked the better. Neither team has won a game in league competition. Both have dropped two.

Two other games are carded for Friday night, one bringing together the unbeaten Gallon and Ashland quintets on the Gallon floor. Shelby, preseason favorites to repeat for the second consecutive championship will take on the Mansfield Tygers on the Mansfield court.

Gallon Ashland Is Feature

The conflict between the veteran teams of Ashland and Gallon should top all other games in the league.

PLAYS OHIO U.

By United Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13—Ohio Wesleyan's basketball team, with two Buckeye conference victories to its credit, will attempt to add another lap to its championship stretch tonight, meeting Ohio University at Delaware.

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 13—Led by Big Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, a chosen hundred of the winter golfing army today took the rainbow trail to Agua Caliente, seeking the $25,000 pot of gold, which awaits tomorrow the winner of the world's richest tournament.

It was the smiling Dudley's right to head the march, for yesterday he demonstrated a golden golfing touch by winning the Los Angeles $10,000 Open and attendant first prize money of $5,500.

Coming almost out of nowhere yesterday with a 68, one under par, the former Georgian gambled with his shots and won a championship place in the sixth annual Los Angeles test by posting a score of 285 to lead the field by two strokes. Dudley had never won a major tournament.

LONDON—One of those Harvard-Princeton rows has broken out in England. Two of the leading public schools—Uppingham and Haileybury—have decided to have nothing to do with each other.

NORTHWESTERN GOES INTO TOP PLACE IN BIG TEN CAGE RACE

Purdue, Wisconsin Only Jump
Out of Cellar as Upsets Are Registered.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—Just a little more than a week old, the Western conference basketball race today was well scrambled with Northwestern in first place. Wisconsin and Purdue, usually fighting for the lead, were one jump out of the cellar.

Northwestern accounted for its second straight triumph last night, defeating Illinois 29 to 27, after a tousing battle in which 35 personal fouls were called. The defeat just added sound taps for Illinois' hopes, it being the third straight setback.

Michigan was expected to defeat Wisconsin, and did it by a 23 to 17 score, but no one figures Iowa to take Purdue. The Hawkeyes, however, got a boost in front early in the contest and had enough left to stage off a desperate Bollersnaker rally at the finish. The defeat was Purdue's second in three games.

Led by Norm Daniels, the only big man on the team, Michigan paced Wisconsin from start to finish when Ted Chmielewski broke loose for two field goals. Michigan moved into third place with two victories and one defeat, while the Badgers dropped down to a tie with Purdue.

Indiana came back to life and gave Ohio State its first testing of the season, another of those two-point affairs, 23 to 21. The Buckeyes were superior from the floor. But Indiana crashed in on nine of his charity shot attempts to win. Both teams have won one and lost one.

Team	W.	L.	Pct.

Ingram Signs To Coach U. of C. Football Teams

By United Press.

BERKELEY, Calif., Jan. 13—An announcement that William A. "Navy Bill" Ingram would coach the University of California football team for the next three years brought to an end today speculation—which included the name of every famous football player in the country—as to the Bears' future grid mentor. Although the salary figure was not made public, it was understood that the former Annapolis all-American coach would receive approximately $10,000 a year.

SOX SIGN YOUNGSTER

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 13—Lou Barbour, Jr., will travel under the eye of his father, Lou Barbour, traveling secretary of the White Sox during the coming week. They may be expected to give the Buckle towners a tough battle. If not, chalk up another victory for Bucyrus and rebuke Harding to the depths of the N. C. O. cellar.

Marchmont Schwartz is the only regular of the Notre Dame basketball field available for the 1931 term.

THE dispute in the Sunday school basketball league which for a time threatened to cause the withdrawal of one team from the 12 team circuit has apparently been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. The leagues will continue play tonight in its regularly scheduled trio of games with all members ready to answer the opening whistle.

The argument which threatened to lessen the number of competing teams started last Saturday night because of alleged mistakes in judgment on the part of the referee. This difficulty was ironed out at a meeting of the ruling board of the league who did what is usually the case in an argument of this kind, backed the referee.

The second of the disputes which marred local basketball last week-end also has been settled with apparently no ill effects. This one concerns two county basketball teams of the eastern district, Waldo and Claridon.

The argument which took place at the county contests came during the progress of the girls' game between the representatives of the two schools. It is reported to have been caused more by spectators than by players of either team.

It has all been settled amicably and the game will be played over on the Waldo court at a later date, probably Jan. 28. The game last Friday will not count in the standings.

With the Western conference basketball race scarcely under way the standings are already fairly well jumbled, but when one straightens it all out, Purdue is found to be languishing but a short distance from the cellar post. Unusual for Purdue.

A lot of cage followers probably wonder what has happened to the team which last year was the class of the circuit and which has several of that same championship team back in the harness this year. It is not difficult to answer. They haven't got "Stretch" Murphy, the greatest point getter produced in the Big Ten for a long time.

While Murphy was on the team Purdue made a lot of noise around the conference and the lanky center was the cause of most of it. Now that Murphy is gone the Bollersnakers' noise-making has subsided to a mere whisper. Murphy isn't there to put the punch into the team.

And now—Will those individuals who are always yelling that one man can't make a basketball club stand up and speak their piece—

Dad's daughters are usually more grateful for the spending money he gives them than Dad's sons.

BUT WHAT IF HE HAD CONNECTED?

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—The trials and tribulations of Pete Wistort, young Chicago heavyweight contender.

About a year ago Wistort saved $3 from a stickup man by slamming the fellow on the jaw, but he fractured his right hand and was unable to pursue his trade for nine months.

Last night in a bout with Andy Shanks, of Grand Rapids, Mich., Pete launched a murderous right swing, missed, and fell on his face. The fall caused him to suffer a fracture of the right shoulder and Shanks was awarded a technical knockout victory.

NOT SO SMALL

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13—Chad Kimsey of the St. Louis Browns' pitching staff isn't as large as he used to be, but it still would be technically incorrect to describe him as a mere shell of his former self.

Kimsey announced his current weight as 215, compared with 222 at the close of the last season. The big flinger was here to sign his contract for 1931.

STRIBLING ASKED TO SIGN FOR 3 MATCHES

Complex Heavyweight Tangle Unraveling; Georgian Ready To Fight for Title.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—The complex heavyweight situation has reached the point where the fighters are being asked to sign not for one bout but for three.

The plight of young Bill Stribling, Macon, Ga., contender, might be taken as an example. Young Bill's father-manager, "Pa" Stribling, was all set to sign Bill to a title match with Max Schmeling in June. Now they're asking him to agree to two more battles in event that Stribling relieves Schmeling of the championship. They want Bill first to meet Primo Carnera in September. "They" being the Hearst milk fund officials and Bill Carey, president of Madison Square garden, unofficially. Then they would have Stribling agree to fight again in 1932 against the best available opponent for the milk fund alone. Under the terms of this three-edged proposal, Stribling would post $25,000 of his 12½ per cent cut in the Schmeling-Stribling gate as a forfeit for the match with Carnera.

Yesterday's conferences were between the milk fund promoters, representatives of Stribling, Schmeling and Bill Duffy, American manager of Carnera. Carney was not there for a New York commission order forbidding under pain of suspension, any promoter to negotiate with a suspended fighter.

Carnera has been under suspension here since his unsatisfactory bout with Leon Chevalier in California last year, and Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, were placed under the ban last week when the commission vacated Maxie's crown because he failed to agree immediately to a title bout with Jack Sharkey.

John Nesbitt, of Fort Smith, Ark., has a pair of horseshoes which won first prize at the state fair in 1880. He made them.

Council Passes $290,200 Appropriation Ordinance

Total Is $82,781 Below Estimated Needs of City for 1931; Department Heads Protest Programs Will Be Hampered; Funds Provided for Six Months.

After deciding in caucus session that the finance committee had worked out the best possible solution of the city's $82,781 shortage in operating expenses this year, city council unanimously adopted a $290,200 appropriation ordinance for 1931 last night without making a single change in the text.

The ordinance was left unchanged despite vigorous arguments of department heads, who claimed the reduced budget for the year will not finance satisfactory programs. These arguments were met with replies that the $82,781 had been taken from each department in proportions thought best by the finance committee.

Councilman W. G. Slack explained it is the hope of council and the finance committee to appropriate additional funds to the departments which have been cut.

It is hoped that extra funds not appropriated will come in later this year. An appeal to the legislature for any possible relief will be made.

City officials frankly evade speculation on what will be done if additional funds are not obtainable as the year progresses. Several departments have been given funds sufficient to operate only six, eight or ten months. Money has been appropriated to pay street light bills and hydrant rentals for little more than half a year, and other divisions of the budget have been cut almost as much.

Among the cuts made as a result of the $82,781 shortage are the following: $24,951.10 from the street lighting fund, $12,492 from the hydrant rental fund, $7,500 from payroll funds in each of the fire and police departments, $5,000 in hospital payroll, $7,000 from the garbage collection department payroll. Many other cuts were also made in various departments.

The $290,200 appropriation ordinance is $18,553 short of the 1930 appropriation figure, a comparison of the 1931 and 1930 measures show.

Comparing the 1930 and 1931 appropriation figures in various funds, it is revealed that the fund was cut from $11,610 in 1930 to $5,500 in 1931; the safety fund from $106,620 to $96,255; the service fund from $134,113 to $104,150; the hospital fund from $53,000 to $50,820. The street maintenance and repair fund was cut from $49,000 to $39,000.

SHERIFF NAMES JAIL ESCAPE PLOT LEADER

Three Held in Solitary on Bread, Water Diet; Reformatory Sentences Passed by Court.

Special to The Star.
BUCYRUS, Jan. 13.—Harry L. Roy of Columbus, alleged leader of a robber gang, was named today by Sheriff George Davenport as the "brains" of a plot to liberate 16 prisoners from the county jail here.

Robert Neuman and George Martin of North Robinson, also named by the sheriff as playing parts in the attempted break, pleaded guilty this morning when arraigned on indictments charging robbery of $300 in power from the Kennore Edmund home at Gallon, Nov. 6.

Martin was sentenced from one to five years in the reformatory while Neuman's sentence was deferred until this afternoon pending a check on his age.

The "break" was frustrated by a deputy sheriff who discovered that lighting fixture wires were used as chisels in an attempt to drill through the ceiling above the cellblocks.

LeRoy was the alleged leader of a gang which specialized last year in stealing moving picture projecting machines and radios from public schools throughout Ohio according to police.

LeRoy, Neuman and Martin are held in solitary confinement on a diet of bread and water which will last as long as they remain in the jail, Sheriff Davenport said. The other 13 are restored to all jail privileges.

Four others pleaded guilty when arraigned on the grand jury indictments this morning. Robert Jeneroux, 24, of Napoleon, was sentenced from one to 15 years in the reformatory for the burglary of the Kroger store here.

Banka Love and John McMichael of North Robinson were each given from one to 15 years in the reformatory for the robbery of a filling station. Lester Pfahler, now serving 30 days in jail for operating a dance hall without a license, was given a 60-day jail sentence on charges of stealing a hog.

HEAR TALK ON EMANCIPATOR

Dr. L. A. Warren of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Tells Clubs of Lincoln's Greatness.

In the first of a series of talks on Lincoln here, Dr. L. A. Warren, head of the Lincoln Historical Research bureau of Ft. Wayne, Ind., discussed the life of Lincoln in a talk before a joint meeting of Marion Kiwanis and Rotary clubs in Hotel Harding this noon.

"Given the ability for hard work and attention to detail is in my estimation the scientific clue to Lincoln's greatness," Dr. Warren declared.

Never Stopped Learning
"Lincoln never stopped learning. He was a self-starter, a first physical and mental character, and studied throughout his entire life," Dr. Warren continued.

Various theories to explain Lincoln's power, which Dr. Warren claims have made him an international hero and the most written of man in history, excepting fatherhood, have been advanced by students of his life, according to the speaker.

Among these are the belief that Lincoln was of divine birth. Some students compare his coming with the birth of Christ, and claim he was inspired with a divine spark.

Mrs. Schell sings
Dr. Warren declared he took little stock in still another theory which attempted to show Lincoln's ancestry centuries before his time, were outstanding personages.

Preceding the talk, Mrs. Karl Schell sang a group of three negro spirituals. Mrs. E. N. Hale accompanied her.

The meeting today was the first of a series of joint meetings of the two Marion luncheon clubs. Dr. Warren this afternoon was to address a school meeting and was also to talk again tonight Wednesday he will address another luncheon club meeting in the Y. M. C. A. devoting all his talks to various phases of Lincoln's life.

Applications of the lead coating process to road machinery have been made successfully.

Exclusive manufacturing and sale rights in Ohio have also been secured by the company for another new product, the Daisy sanitary cheese cutting and weighing machine. Crestline Resident Facing Pen Term Dies After Nervous Breakdown.

By International News Service.
CRESTLINE, O., Jan. 13.—Worry over her conviction on a charge of ballot tampering in the 1929 primary election here was believed today to have been responsible for the death of Mrs. Elenora Blake, 50.

Mrs. Blake died at her home here last night following a nervous breakdown and a subsequent long illness.

Mrs. Blake and her sister, Mrs. Edna Nelson, former precinct judges in Crestline, were tried at Bucyrus last spring on charges of changing the marks on 69 ballots. Following their conviction they were sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the state reformatory for women at Marysville. They took the case to the court of appeals, which has not yet handed down a decision.

A slight increase in attendance at Sunday services in Marion county churches is shown in the report issued today by Rev. W. Martell George, secretary of the Marion County Ministerial association, sponsors of "Go-To-Church" month in Marion county.

Approximately 1,132 more persons attended Sunday school last Sunday than the week previous. The report of Sunday, Jan. 4, was for 19 churches, and in that report, 3,985 persons attended Sunday school. Last Sunday in 19 Marion city and county churches, there were 5,120 in Sunday school.

There was an increase of 40 in the attendance at young people's meetings. The number Sunday was 717. Five hundred and twenty more persons attended morning worship services and there was an increase of 403 in the attendance at Sunday night services.

The increases are not extraordinary, according to Rev. George, when it is considered that there are three additional churches in the list. Each week during January, a report of the attendance at Sunday church services will be made.

Daily Proverb—"Snideth runs the water where the brook is deep."

If we interpret the language of the Chicago Tribune rightly, it refers to the senate radicals as Coxey's army. Now what can the Tribune have had against Coxey's army?

Aviator Balchen is planning a world-circling flight in a plane in an effort to lower the time made by the Graf Zeppelin. Suppose he succeeds, what does it prove; that the plane is faster than the dirigible? That's already recognized.

A few nights ago a burglar broke into a store in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and made off with a radio set. A night or two ago a man visited the home of the owner of the store and offered to sell him the set for $15, with the result that the merchant has the set and the burglar's visitor is in jail. Criminals should get acquainted in neighborhoods before starting out as salesmen.

Lumbermen in the Great Northwest have introduced the calamitous scyphophanta, the "immigrant bug" to kill the tuskmoth which is so deadly to fir trees. The bug delivers the goods, all right, but when one reads of its importation it is hard not to recall how we imported the English sparrows to kill insect pests.

The president of the Association Against Prohibition predicts that twenty-four states are now ready to vote for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and that the remaining necessary twelve will follow the twenty-four within two years. That kind of announcement will naturally cheer the champions of wetness, but experience has taught that there is an awful gap between prediction and performance.

The International chamber of commerce has called a world business parley, to be held in Washington May 4-9, in which forty-six nations will discuss what's wrong with business.
We wouldn't attempt to explain the trouble the world over, but the very probable explanation of what's wrong here in the United States is that we've been enthusiastically engaged in recent past years in contracting to pay out a lot more money than we've been making.

Sir Douglas Mawson radios from the "Discovery" that the south magnetic pole has shifted 100 miles during the last eighteen years. If the magnetic poles are going to wander around as herein indicated, pretty soon we won't know which way we are going.

Near Calumet, railroad police kill one car robber, wound another and capture two without suffering any casualties. It's noticeable that railroad police keep right on getting their men without suffering any damage in doing so.
It would be interesting to know the explanation of their seeming immunity, especially in the light of the many killings of municipal police engaged in battles with gangsters and other criminals.

Probably Lost at Sea.

Over two days have passed since the Trade-wind, carrying Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William S. MacLaren, was expected to reach the Azores. Nothing has been seen of it or them, and hope that they have survived the heavy northwest storm which struck their course shortly after they left Hamilton, Bermuda, Saturday morning, is about abandoned.
Very probably they would have been given up today for dead were it not for the fact that there have been a number of cases where aviators have been picked up at sea days after, ten days in one case, either by searching vessels or vessels of trade not equipped by radio to report their rescue.

All such rescues, however, have been accomplished from comparatively quiet waters, while the storm in which the "Tradewind" was caught was of such force as to raise mighty seas which that frail craft could not have withstood for more than a few moments.
If this young woman of twenty-seven and her companion have succumbed to the fury of the wind and sea, as seems probable, it once more calls attention to the folly of such flights, particularly at this season of the year when the greatest and most powerful ocean liners are frequently so beaten and buffeted by the winds and waves as to make more than the keeping of headway possible and are often seriously damaged.

If we are right, the occupants of the "Trade-wind" sought the record of having been the first to carry a pay load across the North Atlantic by air. Supposing they had attained that record, to what would it have amounted?
Of what practical value could have been such an accomplishment as that? In the time which has elapsed since their original take-off from this country, a fast liner could have carried a pay load of thousands of tons to Europe and back, and done it easily.

Governor White's Address.

Without the slightest pretension toward ability to look into the future, we feel free to say that Governor White's inaugural address was very much what we expected it to be, in that it was brief, to the point, understandable and offered no special panacea for the ills from which the state of Ohio, like the country as a whole, is suffering save that which may be had from the earnest determination of the people of a great commonwealth to overcome them.

The governor hardly got into his message to the people of Ohio before he uttered a warning against the centralization of government and the growing tendency of the state government to take over more and more the functions and duties which belong to communities and individual citizens.

The governor expressed the view that nationally and as a state we are cursed with a multiplicity of laws; that, while it is true that ours may be a government of laws, we are top-heavy with both laws and men, and he urged fewer laws and the devotion of more energy to a solution of the constructive problems of government.

Governor White pledged alike that the burden of those who pay more than their just share of taxation the farm owners and the home owners shall not be increased in any new system of taxation, and that no new imposts shall be placed on salary and wage earners until an effort is honestly made to bring billions in intangible wealth out of hiding. He promised, also, to recommend that any taxation legislation be submitted to the vote of the electorate unless it affords reasonable satisfaction on the part of all. In this connection he urged that the use of the initiative and referendum be more often, rather than less frequently, invoked.

Among other high lights in the new governor's address were the duties owed the wards of the state in its various institutions, and recommended that, in taking precautions for their physical safety, construction should be with an eye to the future, recognizing the fairness of permitting those to come to bear a fair share of the cost burden of such state institutions as may be built.

The governor expressed his feeling that it was not only his duty to support and defend the basic law, but also to see to it, in so far as it may be possible, that every right, privilege and guarantee accorded the people of the state under it be zealously guarded and preserved for them and posterity.

It was in closing that Governor White asked for the aid and support of all citizens to correct present-day industrial, business and employment conditions.

"Whatever the cause, and whatever the justification or blame for conditions which exist," the governor said, "the active aid and assistance of all will be required in their righting.
As your governor, I pledge that I shall, to the extent of my ability, do my part. I ask that you, as citizens, do yours."

"In the accomplishment of all of these tasks there must be no looking backward, nor may we unhelpfully stand still, marking time. It is only by aggressive, forward-looking action that results may be achieved. It is my hope that the general assembly now in session, and the executive and judicial branches of the state government may join hands in ridding Ohio of her governmental ills, and in making government in Ohio a vital, responsive thing, functioning in the interest of all the people."

The Russian five-year plan is said in a Riga cable to be facing ruin. The Russian plan for loans having been hit by the world business slump. One can never tell, even world slumps may have their place in the eternal scheme of things.

Nathan Straus.

The passing of Nathan Straus is marked and mourned wherever there are people who can appreciate the shining example of his life.
Possessor of a vast fortune amassed through hard work and extraordinary business acumen he merely devoted a large portion of his life to doing good with it. The degree of his success is, in some measure, reflected in the unreasonable extent of the sorrow caused by his death.

Mr. Straus was the leader of American Jewry, and his indefatigable efforts in behalf of his race endeared him as much to Gentiles as it did to Hebrews. His most notable humanitarian labor, perhaps, was performed for children, whom he regarded as individually precious. It was not only money that he expended in their behalf. Health, energy and life itself were given unsparingly to the work.

Robert Seid, chairman of the administration committee of the Zionist Organization of America, has paid in the following one of the most stirring tributes encountered among the hundreds spoken since his death.
"A prince of Israel has fallen. The death of Nathan Straus is a calamity which will plunge all humanity and the House of Israel into inconsolable grief."

Representative Cable of this state has introduced a bill in the lower house of congress providing strict regulations looking to the deportation of alien racketeers and other undesirables, the registration of aliens and severe punishment for those in the country unlawfully. The bill may pass the house, but what hope is there for it to get through the senate before December of 1932, when the senate politicians probably will temporarily take a recess on politics and give their attention to the interests of the country?

The Chinese legislative council has enacted a law providing for equal rights for men and women in China. We men should stand up for our rights and demand similar legislation over here.

With 105,000 workmen returning to Ford plants Monday, Chevrolet promising steady jobs to 30,000 men and six other automobile plants in the area issuing calls to their men to return to work, Detroit has good reason to believe that the depression which has been suffered is soon to be a thing of the past. The best phase of the countrywide situation is that many other cities are reporting similar revivals of activities. Who knows? Maybe we actually turned that "corner" and didn't realize it at the time.

Chief Cornstalk as an Antiquarian.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.
Cornstalk, the Indian chief, was one of the most intelligent of his people and because of this fact, and because he had shown that he was interested in the antiquities of his country, Captain William McKee, who was with him on the Ohio in 1871, sought to secure from him some information concerning the origin of the forts and mounds with which the Ohio valley was even then known to be dotted.
He replied that he could only say what had been handed down among his people for generations. That was that they were the work of a white people who entered the country from an unknown source and held it for a long time, but were finally driven out. There was nothing in that tradition as to whence the whites came or whether they went. They were possessed of many arts which they used in their civilization.

Asked why the Indians had not secured from them these desirable arts, Cornstalk replied that the great Spirit had once given his people a book which taught them all these arts, but that they had lost the book and forgotten the arts. In this will be recognized the natural form for such a religious tradition to take. The Indians were not capable of taking or making use of the arts in question, and naturally lost them.

Cornstalk said that in his investigations he found that the Indians who had traveled very far to the west or northwest had found people who lived as Indians, but were white. As the fort buildings were white, he was inclined to believe that it was from these white people of the Far West or Northwest that the invaders of the Ohio valley came.

From Our Readers.

Editor Star—The writer is writing this because it is stated in the Marion Star for January 8, 1931, that the city of Marion faces a serious financial problem. What the people of Marion need is a method of taxation that will not only produce more revenue, but will be less felt than the present method of taxation.

Suppose that the city of Marion would levy a tax like this. A tax of one per cent. upon all sales of property, real and personal, rents, interest on money, salaries, wages, annuities, gifts, inheritances, the money received by the public utility corporations, hotels and department stores, theater admissions, insurance premiums, the proceeds of insurance policies, judgments including alimony and so on. Such a tax should be called a straight sales tax.

We can tell pretty nearly how much revenue such a straight sales tax would produce. The bank clearings of the United States are now over $20,000,000,000 per annum and the above items include all of the bank clearings. The sum of the above items would considerably exceed the bank clearings because such items as real estate transfers, inheritances, the money received by the public utility corporations, hotels and department stores and theater admissions are not usually represented by checks. If the federal government would levy such a straight sales tax, the amount of money paid into the United States treasury would considerably exceed $5,000,000,000 per annum.
Just now the amount of money paid into the United States treasury is considerably below $5,000,000,000 per annum. If such a sales tax was doubled, it would produce a revenue of over $10,000,000,000 per annum in the United States, which is fully as much as our entire federal, state and municipal taxes. In the city of Marion such a straight sales tax should produce enough revenue so as to pay all expenses of the city of Marion and at the same time reduce the taxes upon realty.

It is quite likely that if such a straight sales tax was adopted by the city of Marion, the taxes upon realty there could be cut in two.
It would make a whole lot of difference to the owners of realty in Marion if their taxes could be so reduced because their living expenses would be correspondingly reduced. It would make a whole lot more difference to the owner of realty which is encumbered because what he would be otherwise used to pay the taxes could be used to reduce the incumbrance. Lower taxes upon realty would also lower rents.

The bulk of such a straight sales tax could be collected by requiring that all checks, money orders and drafts be stamped with a stamp costing one per cent. of their face value before they are presented for payment.
Such a straight sales tax is not so strange as it might seem. It is only an extension of the tax upon gasoline for general governmental purposes, but at a much lower rate.

Health in the Winter.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
It is a pleasure to find on sale today an occasional book that goes right to the heart.
My friend, Harry Hershfield, has just published his "Super City," a brilliant novel, a gripping tale of human interest. But more than this, the book is rich in philosophical comment.
In my reading I lingered over a trifling incident, unimportant to the plot, but it contains a hint worth observing. Three friends had just finished a heavy lunch. In spite of good October weather, balmy and bright, they lollied in their chairs with the club windows tightly closed.
The author commented: "It is surprising how rich men, who engage in the expensive outdoor sports of golfing, polo and tennis, take advantage of unhealthy, snug comfort whenever they can."

It is, indeed, surprising that men who profess to love the out-of-doors will submit to the stale air found in many of their indoor haunts.
Clubs, offices, lodge rooms, even dining rooms, are frequently stifling. The atmosphere is polluted and the simplest hygienic rules of right living are utterly disregarded. Why is it?

If golf is a pose and other outdoor sports are merely games to please grown-up boys, let us confess the truth. But, if we indulge in these things, even partly for health's sake, let us not end our health pursuit when we go indoors. Let us see to it that the inside places are decent places in which to live.

Persons who are undernourished have thin blood. The circulation is poor, and even slight exposure may bring a chill. Nothing overcomes this sensitiveness as quickly as proper feeding and habitual exposure of the skin to sunlight.

If your duties are such that during the winter season you are denied the advantages of regular exercise out-of-doors, there must be found a substitute for sunlight. In this connection, talk with your doctor about the ultraviolet lamps. A few minutes' exposure to their rays will do almost as much good as several hours in the sunshine. They will build up in your skin a resistance to heat and cold.

Try to make this an exceptional winter. Give the same thought to your indoor living that you give to your expensive outdoor sports.
There can be no doubt that the average individual declines in vigor during the cold weather. This is not necessary if thought is given to the problem. You can govern your life, if you will, so that springtime will find you fit and fine.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES
J. O. Q.—What is the cause of dizziness?
2.—Do you advise a remedy for piles?
A.—Dizziness may be due to a circulatory disturbance, to an eye or ear condition, to some intestinal disturbance. It would be wise to have your doctor give you an examination in order to determine the exact cause.
2.—Yes. First of all correct the underlying trouble—constipation.

S. R. Q.—What do you advise for pimples?
A.—Correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food.
Avoid constipation.

M. T. C. Q.—Can you advise me concerning a diet for mucus colitis?
A.—Any one troubled with mucus colitis should be under a doctor's care. However, I shall be glad to give you suggestions concerning diet. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and repeat your question.

MINNIE E. S. Q.—What do you advise for pimples on the scalp?
2.—What causes a pain between the shoulder blades and under the shoulder blade?
A.—Consult a skin specialist for treatment.
2.—May be due to indigestion or gall bladder trouble.

R. T. Q.—Where should I go for an operation to remodel the nose? What would such operation cost?
A.—Go to one of the large hospitals, where they will be glad to advise you. Since doctor's fees vary, it would be impossible to give you any definite advice along these lines.
Such matters can usually be satisfactorily arranged between doctor and patient. — Copy-

J. L. Q.—Will carbolic vaseline used on the eyelashes prove harmful?
A.—Plain vaseline is better.

Rewriting Mathematics.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.
It is commonly believed that the history of mathematics has been written with finality, by a host of investigators headed by Cantor, but that little remains to be told. This belief is constantly being upset nowadays, by discoveries among little-known or recently-found repositories of information. One of the most outstanding facts which, from time to time, come to light is that early peoples possessed mathematical knowledge of the most uneven and disparate sort.

In some respects, they would show themselves centuries in advance of their age; yet in other respects, they were extremely backward. The Greeks might show marvelous advance in geometry, and yet have no conception of the irrational or imaginary quantities, both of which are integral in the thinking and practice of today.

Take, for example, the subject of analytic or coordinate geometry, which is often fami-larly called "conic sections" by college students. The founder of this subject is generally accepted by historians as the French philosopher and mathematician, Rene Descartes.

The subject bears the impress of his name as discoverer and founder, in being called cartesian geometry. It is a form of algebraic geometry employing usually a pair of axes at right angles to each other, for reference in the representation of graphs or curves in a plane. A study of Euclid, in the original, shows that that great master employed the method of cartesian geometry, notably in the study of the quadratic equation.

He determines the roots of special forms of the quadratic equation by geometric methods, scarcely distinguishable from the methods used many centuries later by Descartes. The Italian mathematician, Vieta, also solved certain geometric problems by means of algebra, which is in essence the principle employed by Descartes. Vieta has been credited by some writers with the founding of the subject of algebraic geometry.

As Miller has recently pointed out, Descartes was far from establishing analytic geometry on the basis used at the present time. Indeed, many of the fundamentals, as well as the extreme refinements of the subject, were never used or even devised by Descartes. For example, he never used negative values for one of the coordinates, ordinarily measured along a horizontal line and called the abscissa, or part cut off.

As Miller observes: "If our modern students of analytic geometry were not allowed the use of negative abscissas they would find themselves greatly hampered, and if R. Descartes could take one of our modern final examinations closing a course in analytic geometry, with all the knowledge he possessed relating thereto while living, it is likely that most of our instructors would be inclined to flunk him. This statement is not intended to deduct from his great mathematical abilities and deep insight, but it aims to convey a correct impression of some of the limitations of his actual knowledge along the line whose development he influenced profoundly."

Two problems which have absorbed the attention of mathematicians for twenty centuries are: The Pythagorean proposition and the solution of the quadratic. One of the most remarkable of recent discoveries in the history of mathematics shows that, contrary to accustom in all the schools, these two basic problems were understood and employed by the ancient Babylonians. Of nineteen Babylonian problems employing the quadratic equation, ten reveal the actual details of its use. Sometimes we are almost persuaded to believe that there is nothing new under the sun! — Copy-

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. JINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 13.—In the hours of the square is a gushing fountain of social intrigue and human pettiness. It is in the bull, but at 4. a. m. in its first lap of the there is the icy indifference and the languor of the ashen gray sky.

In an all-night sandwich parlor I saw only a sprinkling remained. A few nodding tables, food half eaten. A tipsy, sobbing woman's face was smudged with mascara moaned: "A sweet jam you got me into. I go home he'll kill me." One of those guys reading a racing form.

Outdoors scarcely a dozen in sight. The only noise—the slim chime of far-away A newle, eyes heavy with sleep, uncaring hallway, stretches and schuffles toward a way block for his supply of morning paper.
A careening mail wagon screams across so, hunched over thick coffee cups, during half heartedly.

A whistling cop saunters along, offering naive mysticism of tapping his club against iron bars. In the east clouds begin to a rosy pink. Brass sign polishers are ap-ing their tags. A weaving figure holds a post, slick at the curb. Huskies hurl of morning editions on the corners.

Bright blonde, gaily cross-dressed luggard deposited in front of a street hotel. A newsdealer's tap their way to hatches. A first screech of rail against rail in the subway.
A minx in emine steps from a limo.
smiles enigmatically at a snoring figure and skips up steps.

Cuddenly Broadway stiffens. Floodgate unhinged. There is the confusion of homicides, strong trucks and a curving foam faces. Save in the shady hotels, where patrons sleep until dusk, all is vulgar dis-— the exhalence of Solom.

A new publicity man was sent to a dock to meet an incoming Russian actor, cast for a bravado role in the movies. He was told and his despatch to newspaper and "He weighs 237 pounds, stands six three in bare feet, neck eighteen in around and smells like a wolf."

New Master of Ceremonies on Baker Program

SIGMUND SPAETH, whose wit and knowledge of the old songs has made him one of the most popular concert stage performers, assumes a new role Tuesday when he makes his first appearance as master of ceremonies of the new Happy Wonder Baker program through Station WEAH at 9:30 p. m.

No ordinary master of ceremonies who simply fills space between numbers so the musicians can recover their breath, "Doc" Spaeth will do one of the star "acts" during the broadcast—a piano-monologue—in which he will give his own notation on "Yes, We Have No Bananas." "A little musical vivisection" says "Doc" speaking of it.

The new Happy Wonder Baker broadcast also will feature a guest composer each week in addition to the big orchestra with Frank Black, composer, and the Happy Wonder Baker Trio with their accompanist Will Donaldson. Tonight's guest is Robert Hood Bowers, who composed "Chinese Lullaby" from "East Is West."

Edward Fyre Hunt of the United States Department of Commerce and Vital Jordan, economist for the "Business Week," will be the speakers of the second program of the Voters' Service series which will be broadcast over an NBC network Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Songs and compositions of Victor Herbert, including several numbers heard infrequently over the air, are high spots on the radio program Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over WTAM.

Two musical works by Henry Joslyn will feature the program to be broadcast by the Philco orchestra under the direction of Howard Barlow on Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over the Columbia Broadcasting System network.

Ludwig Laurier and his Slumber Music ensemble will present a program of varied classics during the broadcast to be heard over an NBC network Tuesday at 11 p. m.

Leta Wallace Hopper, world famous beauty at the age of more than 60, will shortly become perhaps the most widely heard woman speaker in history. On Wednesday at 3 p. m. Miss Hopper will begin a new series of beauty talks over the NBC-WJZ network, which, together with the program in which she is now heard over the NBC-WJZ network, will make a total of four talks a week by the woman whose success in defying old age has proved a little less than scientific phenomenon.

The story of "Robin Hood," celebrated outlaw who roamed in Sherwood Forest 800 years ago, will be dramatized over the radio and presented by the American School of the Air to a nationwide audience of school children Wednesday at 2:30 p. m.

FOOD PRICES
TODAY AND
A YEAR AGO

What consumers save over last year's costs

A&P is advertising prices of food today compared with prices a year ago. The differences in the list generally show substantial reductions.

The idea is to bring home to the housewife how much less her food is costing her than it cost last year, at this time. In these figures she sees actual facts, not theories. To her they have a high practical news value.

They are important in another way. They illustrate in dollars and cents A&P's policy—the policy of passing on to the consumer the savings that come from lower food prices.

By A&P's new low prices customers can measure the decline in the cost of the raw materials that enter into what they eat.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

Lecture-Recital Club Program Honors Composer MacDowell

INTIMATE glimpses into the life of the composer MacDowell and the inspirations for many of his themes interspersed the delightful program of MacDowell compositions presented by Leland G. Nichols, professor of piano and theory at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, guest artist on the Lecture-Recital program last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Nichols announced his own numbers, preceding each one with an interesting sketch of the composition and some incident in the career of MacDowell or a characteristic of his life gleaned from his study and through the interview which he had with Mrs. MacDowell on his visit to the artists' colony founded by Edward MacDowell at Peterboro, N. H., two years ago.

The guest pianist captivated his audience, which numbered 150, with his selections which were presented with the feeling and technique of one having a true appreciation of the beloved composer's work.

Members of the club appearing with Mr. Nichols also presented numbers by MacDowell, carrying out the program theme which was in honor of the composer.

Mr. Nichols' first group included selections from "MacDowell's 'Sea Piece'." They were "To the Sea," "From a Wandering Iceberg" and "A. D. 1620." His other numbers were "From a German Forest" and "Of Brother Rabbit," from "Firebird Tales," "To a Waterlily" and "A Deserted Farm," from "Woodland Sketches," "In Deep Woods," "Indian Idyl" and "To An Old White Pine," from "New England Idyls," "Scotch Tunes Poem" and "March Wind."

Miss Dora Jacobs, contralto, opened the program with "To a Wild Rose," "Thy Beaming Eyes" and "My Jean." Miss Margaret Hoover, violinist, played "Serenade" by Charles Robert Valdes and "To a Wild Rose." The concluding numbers were included in a group of songs by Mrs. William Unger, Eucyrus, soprano. She sang "Fair Springtide," "The Robin Sings in

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily
Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, contains the active agent of rosin, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.
